O R D E R:-

It has been represented to Government that it is difficult to have fire extinguishers tested annually with reference to rule 38(4) of the Madras Cinematograph Rules and that the metal plate with which fire extinguishers are made cannot withstand the pressure of 350 lbs per square inch prescribed in that rule. The Government have examined the representation in consultation with the Inspector General of Police, Madras, Chief Electrical Inspector to Government, Madras and the Commissioner of Police Madras and have decided that the pressure to which hydraulic test is applied in the case of fire extinguishers may be fixed at 300 lbs per square inch, the periodicity of such test being specified as every second year. To give effect to this decision, rule 38 (4) of the Madras Cinematograph Rules is amended suitably in para 2 below.
